In this first of a series, we showcase our feature film 'Dawn of a New Day'. We have been making this film from the past year and we are excited to share it with the world and to give you a preview. Dawn of a New Day - Trailer 1 (Action, Sci-Fi, Thriller) Get on the front line of battles at dawn when a new Day begins! Get on the front line of battles at dawn when a new Day begins! Music: The Lighthouse - The Development of Apple This is a unique video presentation, I have never seen such a detailed presentation regarding the development of the Apple. Here are just a few interesting points: It seems that the power management feature in the Final Cut Pro 7 has many similarities with the features implemented by the Mac OS X. That's really interesting because Apple seems to be working in the same direction. Apple seems to be improving the OS X graphics cards and graphics chip support. This video shows how the developer improved support for Intel HD Graphics (also known as Integrated Graphics Controller) in Mac OS X 10.7.4. The developer writes that the new OS X is using the new driver from Xpress Company. I also notice

KEYMACRO is a powerful application that lets you manage text-to-speech data on your PCs. With it you can customize your voice in any way and get any text to speech output that you want. KEYMACRO comes with all sorts of high quality text-to-speech engines. You can use a synthesized voice like IntelliSpeak. You can also choose to use an automated speech like the PC-voice or you can use the Text-to-Speech engine of your choice. Text-to-Speech engines With KEYMACRO you can choose between high quality Text-to-Speech engines like IntelliSpeak, PC-voice and Windows Smart Speak, each one is unique. What is the difference between the different types of text-to-speech engines? An automatically triggered synthesized speech is very easy to use. You simply click the button that you want to hear and the text-to-speech engine will read the text to you. This is a very common approach and is the easiest one. Text-to-speech engines can also be triggered by any type of event. For instance, you can set up your computer to automatically launch the text-to-speech engine whenever your mouse pointer is over a specified area. You can also trigger your text-to-speech engine when a user starts typing or at a specific time. You can also use a completely automated speech engine. With this type of engine, you have the option to place a text-to-speech button on your desktop. When a user double clicks the button, the engine will begin playing the text to him. Now that we know how text-to-speech engines work, we can understand what the main difference between each one is. An automatically triggered synthesized speech is very easy to use.
